ALEXANDER IS A BIG WINNER WOMEN VOTE.

Women and Socialist Ticket
Go Down to Defeat.

WOMEN IMPORTANT FACTOR

Vote in Proportion to Number Registered and Cast Ballots More Rapidly Than Men—Mrs. Louis Flaught, 71, Dies From Excitement Soon After Voting Good Government Ticket—McNamara Confessions Killed Harriman's Chances.

Los Angeles, Dec. 6.—The Socialist ticket, headed by Job Harriman, went down to defeat at the first municipal election in California at which women were permitted to exercise the right of franchise. The good government ticket, headed by George Alexander, was elected in its entirety by majorities ranging from 20,000 to 100,000.

The confessions of the McNamaras and the disclosures in connection with jury-bribing had much to do with the defeat of Harriman, who, although not directly involved, was one of the attorneys for the McNamaras and therefore lost followers when the disclosures came. But the women after all, showed themselves the foes of Socialism. The vote cast, 140,880, was tremendous for Los Angeles.

Madame Caroline Severance, mother of women's clubs, and more than 60 years of age, was one of the early voters, casting a ballot for the first time after almost three-quarters of a century of struggle for suffrage. "I am satisfied," said Madame Severance, "this is what I have lived for these years." Mrs. Ella C. Pease, 90, was carried to the polls.

Her Wish Granted.
Mrs. Louise Flaught, 71, died of heart trouble a few minutes after she voted. Before going to the polls she said to her three sons: "Let me vote once before I die." Her vote was against Socialism. When she returned home the excitement of it proved too much for her vitality.

An initiative ordinance providing prohibition in the city is overwhelmingly defeated.

An ordinance providing for a municipal newspaper is believed to have been carried by a small majority.

A huge vote was cast and women voters supplied the surprise of the day, voting faster than the men in many instances. Also a heavier percentage of the registered women vote is believed to have polled than of the

HAMLIN IS ON TRAIL OF FUND

Seeks More Light on State Department Expenditures.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Congressman Hamlin of Missouri, chairman of the committee on expenditures in the state department, who unearthed the "Day portrait scandal," arose in the house with a reminder that he is still on the job. He declared that by diligent inquiry during the past few weeks he had found that although the secret fund of the state department is only $90,000 a year, the department had expended secretly under blanket vouchers $732,981 in the past six years, or an average of $122,163 a year. Mr. Hamlin charged that in defiance of law other funds had been tapped and treated in the same way as the secret fund.

"I have found out enough about this fund," said Mr. Hamlin, "to make me anxious to know how many thousand dollars have been expended each year on portraits, pleasure trips, dollar diplomacy, enhanced salaries and other things that congress never contemplated should be paid from the secret fund."

"Madonna of the Stars," Stolen, but Soon Recovered

ENCOURAGED perhaps by the success of the thief or thieves who stole the "Mona Lisa" from the Louvre, a robber removed the famous "Madonna of the Stars" from the Monastery of San Marco, in Florence, but was subsequently captured with the picture, which was undamaged. The painting, reputed to be one of the two finest examples of the work of Fra Angelico, has been estimated to be worth $100,000. It is a small wooden panel about two feet high and one foot wide. It was hung in the cell formerly occupied by the painter-monk, which contained other pictures by the same master, the monastery having been converted into a museum. The other paintings were not disturbed. This is the first instance of a painting having been stolen from an Italian museum. It was remarked when the "Mona Lisa" was stolen that, even if the original should be recovered, there would always rest upon it the suspicion that it was only a skillful copy, but the Florentine authorities seem satisfied that they have recovered the panel that was stolen.

LIFE SENTENCE GIVEN

James B. McNamara for the Blowing Up of the Los Angeles Times Building—The Crime Cost 21 Lives—John J., the Brother, Gets 15 Years.

Had Momentary Fear That Judge Would Say Death.

FIFTEEN YEARS FOR BROTHER

Dynamiters Pass Through Trying Ordeal With Little Display of Emotion—Both Have Been Summoned Before Federal Grand Jury That Meets Tomorrow—Mother at Last Believes in Guilt, but Wants to Hear It From Sons' Own Lips.

Los Angeles, Dec. 6.—James B. McNamara must spend the rest of his life in San Quentin, the prison on a rockbound strip of the northern shore of San Francisco bay, according to the decision of Judge Walter Bordwell.

It is the penalty James B. McNamara will pay for the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building Oct. 1, 1910, which caused the death of 21 employees of that paper. John J. McNamara, his brother, was sentenced to serve 15 years in the same prison. He had pleaded guilty to participation in the dynamiting of the Llewellyn iron works the Christmas following the Times explosion. Both men will be kept here until they appear before the federal grand jury, which is soon to begin a nationwide probing of the dynamiters' organization.

The prisoners stood up under the sentence bravely. Neither broke down, although James B. was on the verge of tears. John J., the elder of the brothers, was calm, but weak, and swayed as if about to faint while being sentenced. James B. during the charge of Judge Bordwell trembled visibly when the judge spoke these words: "There is no ray of comfort to be obtained in your assertion that you did not intend to destroy life. Such an assertion is a mockery."

May Have Feared Worst.
It may have been that James B. feared the worst—hanging—when the judge spoke these portentous words. The tears came to his eyes. When he first stood up to receive sentence his cheeks were flushed. As the court spoke the Greek gradually left until the moment when the response was over and the court had said he would not hang. He sat down with an air of relief.

As for John J., there was a different man. Tall and handsome, in a way, with squared shoulders and his hands folded behind his back, he stood before the court comparatively unconcerned. He, too, was flushed of countenance. It plainly showed the prison pallor.

In the written confession made by J. B. McNamara he states that on the evening of Sept. 30, 1910, he placed in Ink alley, a portion of the Times building, a suitcase containing 16 sticks of 80 per cent dynamite, set to explode at 1 o'clock the next morning. He says he did not intend to take the life of anyone, only to injure the building and scare the owner. He regrets the killing of the employees of the Times, and says that if by giving his life he could bring them back he would freely do it.

KNOWS THEM ALL

Fredericks Says Dynamiters as Good as in the Toils.

Los Angeles, Dec. 6.—After he returned to his office, the district attorney made the following statement:

"Nothing since the ending of the civil war marks such an epoch in the history of America as the passing of the bluegeon, the slug and the strong arm from the ranks of union labor. The great rank and file of laboring men are well pleased with results and have expressed themselves in the strongest terms of condemnation against the practices of these men who were sentenced."

"However, there have been published statements from some of those not in the rank and file of labor that are not sincere and breathe untruth. We know them all. I have read statements condemnatory from some who, at this time, have a net woven about them that will connect them with dynamite outrages. We know every dynamiter and every man who in any way has been connected with any job that has ever been pulled off, and any confessions that either J. J. or John B. McNamara would make would only corroborate the testimony we already have."

MURDERER THEN EXECUTED

Georgia Courtroom Scene of Near Tragedy When Colored Man Who Had Killed Wealthy Planter, Twice Felled Mob and Escaped Jail on Eve of Execution, Faces Judge For Second Time—Was Assisted to the Gallows.

Washington, Ga., Dec. 6.—T. B. Walker, colored, bleeding from a wound inflicted on him by the brother of his victim, was hanged here for the murder of Charles S. Hollinshead, a wealthy planter of this county. Walker was shot while he was standing before the judge in the superior courtroom being re-sentenced to the gallows. Just before the judge concluded the sentence, John C. Hollinshead, brother of the murdered man, rose from his seat, drew a revolver and fired point blank at the negro. The bullet took effect in the negro's face, entering his right cheek, going through his mouth, and came out below the left jaw.

The negro fell to the floor. Physicians decided he was not fatally wounded, and after his face was bandaged he was lifted from the floor and supported by court officials, who then finished the death sentence, ordering that the negro be hanged.

Assisted to Scaffold.

With a bloody bandage about his face, the negro was assisted to the scaffold at the hour named and was executed.

John C. Hollinshead, who shot the negro, collapsed after firing the shot and is under the care of physicians. He will not be prosecuted.

The negro who was hanged had twice before escaped death for the murder of Hollinshead six weeks ago. Twice he was captured by a mob, but escaped while attempts were being made to string him up. On the eve set for his execution he again escaped.

RABBITS KILLED BY THE MILLION DURING SEASON

Columbus, O., Dec. 6.—"We estimate that several millions of rabbits have been shot in Ohio during the present game season," said General John C. Speaks, state game warden, in commenting on the close of the period during which a majority of the game birds and animals may be killed. "Indeed," he continued, "I think we are rapidly coming to a time when rabbits will be figured as one of the regular food supplies, and they even may be raised for commercial purposes."

Actual Construction Work May Commence in Spring

George W. Baker Says Extension of Traction From South Charleston to Washington Would Require Four Months' Work and Thinks Work May Commence by April 1, 1912.

"By the first of next April we want to commence constructing the extension of the road from South Charleston to this city, working on both ends, if we receive the support of the people," said Mr. George W. Baker, owner of the Springfield & Washington electric road during an interview Tuesday night.

Mr. Baker talked freely of the project, and did not hesitate to say that the prospects for the extension were far brighter than ever before, and that if the support was given him which he expects, he was confident that by April 1st, 1912, construction work would commence and within four months cars would be in operation between this city and Springfield, connecting Washington with the electric railway world.

Mr. Baker intends taking a large block of the stock or bonds himself, and anticipates no trouble in disposing of the remainder. He has received a great many inquiries concerning the stock and bonds, and in addition to this a number of landowners along the route where the road will probably run, have offered to give a free right of way, well knowing that the increase in the value of their lands will be far more than the value of the land thus given.

Mr. Baker does not know whether electric or gasoline cars will be used. He states that the 200 horse power gasoline cars have been tested by some of the larger roads, and are proving more economical and giving every satisfaction than an electric car gives. These cars have a speed of more than 75 miles per hour.

Mr. Baker also spoke favorably of the extension to Chillicothe, or some other point such as Hillsboro, or even Columbus.

Right of way will probably be taken within a short time, and preliminary surveys made between this city and South Charleston.

DEATH OF MILTON VANKIRK.

Milton Vankirk, aged 82 years, one of Fayette county's pioneer settlers and known throughout the county, died at the home of his daughter in Stoutsville, Fairfield Co., Monday evening, while visiting his daughter at that point.

The deceased leaves eight children: Mrs. Ol Nelson, Lossen Vankirk, Mrs. Will McCourt, of Buena Vista; Mrs. Rev. Jas. McCourt, Raymore, Mo.; Mrs. S. W. Jones, Wapakoneta, Ohio; Mrs. W. E. Phillips, Stoutsville, O.; Mrs. Al Wood, Good Hope and Rev. Hiram Vankirk, of Connecticut.

The remains were brought to this city and taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ol Nelson. Funeral services were held Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. at the Sugar Creek Baptist church, followed by interment in the Sugar Creek cemetery.

Correlli Still in Jail

Socialist Arrested Monday Night Pleads Guilty, But Says Money Belongs to Defeated Socialist Candidate Dixon.

John Correlli, Socialist speaker and globe trotter arrested Monday night on a charge of intoxication and who was badly clubbed by the night men for resisting arrest, was arraigned in police court Wednesday morning, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of being intoxicated, and was taken back to jail because he could not pay the fine.

The man had money enough to pay his fine but said that this amount belonged to defeated Socialist candidate for mayor of Springfield, Dixon, being money received for books sold by Correlli Saturday and Sunday.

From the remarks made by Correlli he was custodian of the literature of the local Socialist organization of Springfield, and stand high in Socialist circles in that city. He was suffering from a sore head and said he thought one rib was broken. Notwithstanding this he was very agile in climbing or descending the stairway to the Mayor's office.

Correlli is a man of small height, but of powerful strength, and speaks English with a very noticeable foreign accent.

Arrangements for his release will be made later, and the Socialists of Springfield will probably come to his aid.

QUIT CALOMEL!

Thousands Are Turning from This Dangerous Drug. A Safe Vegetable Substitute Is Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Portsmouth, Ohio, has discovered a new laxative and liver toner in a combination of vegetable materials, mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like the old and untrustworthy calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him years ago towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he is today in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive-oil colored tablet.

The results of fifteen years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, and their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

They are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities.

Artistic Recital At Home Of Mrs. Craig

The spacious home of Mrs. T. H. Craig was filled Tuesday afternoon, when the Cecilians demonstrated anew their prestige in musical circles in a recital of beauty and artistic merit.

A Cecilian recital is invariably an oasis in the desert of ordinary life and pleasures, its high inspiration as elevating as it is enjoyable.

Miss Edith Gardner presided as president.

A song cycle for four voices, "The Voice of Fate", Berwald, sung by four of the club's leading soloists. Mrs. Lona G. Hughey, first soprano; Mrs. Mary Burgett, first contralto; Mrs. Lillie Davis, second soprano and Mrs. Ida Pine, second soprano, was ambitious even beyond the usual Cecilian work. The music was extremely melodious, replete with fine harmonies, and the four voices blended beautifully. Mrs. Hughey's brilliant high soprano was particularly suited to the first soprano score, which ran very high. The finish of the little cantata proved it to be the climax of weeks of rehearsal.

Mrs. D. S. Craig prefaced it with an introduction which enabled the audience to understand the music. Miss Margaret McClure's accompaniment was perfect.

Mr. James Kneisley's appearance is always the signal for applause and Tuesday's clapping was followed by the hush of absorbed silence while the violinist, with his wonderful grasp upon the soul of the music, drew one melody after another from his bow. He played four numbers rivalling each other in beauty. Miss Light accompanied him admirably.

A group of Bird songs by Liza Lehman, "The Woodpigeon," "The Yellowhammer," "The Wren," "The Owl," were charming and most artistically sung by Mrs. Winnie W. Shoop, with just the suggestion of piquancy the songs demanded. Mrs. Fannie Ballard played a beautiful accompaniment.

Miss Margaret McClure's left-hand piano interpretation of the Sextett from Lucia di Lammermoor, was received with such continued applause that she responded with Chopin's "Prelude." Each rendition testified to the artistic temperament and unusual talent of the young musician. The audience was so charmed with the Song Cycle that the quartet of singers were urged to repeat it for the benefit of late comers, which they kindly consented to do.

The recital netted a nice sum for the Cecilians' Y. M. C. A. pledge.

Mr. James Kneisley's appearance is always the signal for applause and Tuesday's clapping was followed by the hush of absorbed silence while the violinist, with his wonderful grasp upon the soul of the music, drew one melody after another from his bow. He played four numbers rivalling each other in beauty. Miss Light accompanied him admirably.

A group of Bird songs by Liza Lehman, "The Woodpecker," "The Yellowhammer," "The Wren," "The Owl," were charming and most artistically sung by Mrs. Winnie W. Shoop, with just the suggestion of piquancy the songs demanded. Mrs. Fannie Ballard played a beautiful accompaniment.

Miss Margaret McClure's left-hand piano interpretation of the Sextett from Lucia di Lammermoor, was received with such continued applause that she responded with Chopin's "Prelude." Each rendition testified to the artistic temperament and unusual talent of the young musician. The audience was so charmed with the Song Cycle that the quartet of singers were urged to repeat it for the benefit of late comers, which they kindly consented to do.

The recital netted a nice sum for the Cecilians' Y. M. C. A. pledge.

Boys Start Fire

Residents in the northern part of the city on Paint street were very much annoyed Monday by smoke from a cob pile in the marsh east of the Fayette Grain Company's elevator, where some mischievous boys had set fire to some trash and a cob pile. The boys have been playing pranks around the elevator until the affair has come to the notice of the police.

LOCAL DEALER ERECTS MONUMENT AT CINCINNATI.

P. J. Burke, Jr., the monument dealer of this city, shipped a large fine monument to Cincinnati yesterday, which will be set in the new St. Joseph cemetery for the late Bridget Brennan.

This monument has a heavy granite pedestal surmounted by three large Italian marble statues. The pedestal is cut in three pieces and is all hammered, except the face of die, which has a carved and polished shield. The inscription is on this shield in heavy raised polished letters. The family name is just below the shield with letters to match that of the inscription. All the statues are of pure white Italian marble imported by Mr. Burke from Carrara, Italy, and represents The Sacred Heart, St. Joseph and The Immaculate Conception. All this work except the statues was finished here. This monument was let to the lowest bidder in Cincinnati last July, and was given Mr. Burke, he being the lowest.

RURAL DELEGATES ORGANIZE

Deny That They Contemplate Fight on Rev. Bigelow.

Columbus, O., Dec. 6.—The conference of farmer delegates to the constitutional convention was held at the Southern hotel with nine delegates present. E. A. Peters of Franklin county was made chairman and Frank P. Miller of Fairfield, secretary. Others present were: Robert Longstreth, Hocking; George W. Miller, Crawford; A. J. Beyer, Hancock; Frank Hursh, Hardin; J. L. Baum, Ross; Charles D. Holtz, Seneca, and Mike Cody, Union.

All delegates present disclaimed that the meeting had been called to oppose the candidacy of Herbert S. Bigelow of Cincinnati for president of the convention, and the matter was not discussed in the session.

George W. Miller of Crawford, who called the meeting, said he believed the farmers of Ohio are opposed to any constitutional provision that would call for classification of property for purposes of taxation. They favor good roads, he said.

JUSTICE MOVES QUICKLY

Five Italians Sentenced to Die Within Month After Murder.

New York, Dec. 6.—Five stunted, frosty Italians stood before the bar of the Westchester county supreme court in White Plains while Justice Tompkins sentenced each of them in turn to die in the electric chair in Sing Sing, some time during the week beginning Jan. 15, in expiation for the murder of Mrs. Mary Hall in her home near Croton lake, on the morning of Nov. 8.

THE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE.

How The Double Red Cross Originated.

Although the double red cross has been used in the United States for more than five years, as the emblem of the crusade against tuberculosis, few people have known how it originated.

The double red cross was first suggested as the symbol of the International Anti-Tuberculosis Association in Berlin in October 1902. Dr. G. Sersiron of Paris was the proposer of the symbol and it was adopted at the Berlin meeting.

The double red cross is similar in shape to a cross used frequently in the Greek Catholic Churches and also in the Lorraine Cross of France. The Ohio Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis has adopted the standard proportions of nine for the length of the cross to five for the width of the arms, with a space one-ninth of the length between the arms.

Today, under this banner of the anti-tuberculosis crusade, societies have been formed in almost every civilized country in the world.

REASSURING.

We have been hearing and reading much during the last year about economy in municipal affairs.

The primary cause of most of the discussion has been the Smith one per cent. tax rate limit law which has just become operative, the first collection of taxes under that law being made this December.

Shortage of money with which to pay operating expenses of the municipal government has been the specter which has haunted many cities throughout Ohio and retrenchment in the expense account has been loudly proclaimed as the only avenue through which utter financial ruin might be escaped.

Our own city has not been free from fear on account of an expected lack of funds under the new tax law.

It is therefore reassuring in view of that fear which has been our constant companion during the last twelve months to note that the city council is unafraid. At its regular meeting Monday night that body without any apparent apprehension of disastrous results passed an ordinance boosting the salaries of the councilmen and the service director one hundred per cent. and the proposition to boost the salaries of the new mayor and chief of police to a figure totaling nearly as great a percentage of increase, failed of adoption only by advice of the city solicitor.

These men in the legislative branch are next to the gun and should know what the financial condition of the city, past, present and prospective, warrants in the way of expenditures. The men composing our present city council are not only presumptively charged with this knowledge, but must be held to have an actual knowledge of true conditions on account of the length of their service in a position where knowledge was obtainable.

No one will contend that city officials in a city the size of Washington are overpaid. That would not be contended for now and would not have been insisted upon at any time since the enactment of the present city code.

While the people have always unmistakably indicated a disposition to deal liberally with faithful and efficient officers there has been that ever-present fear, whether warranted or not matters little, of poverty.

Coming at any time an increase in the remuneration of faithful public servants is always well received when warranted by conditions, but coming at this time, when fear of ability to meet expenses has been stalking along beside taxpayers and officers alike, granting, of course, upon presumptions of law and fact, that conditions justify an increase, the action of council in boosting salaries is gratifying and assuring.

It indicates that in the opinion of men who should know Washington can meet her fixed obligations and those of her contingent expenses that are so certain that they may be treated as fixed, fulfill her promises to the residents of annexed territory, take care of her indebtedness, interest and principle as it matures, and pay her servants a sum more nearly proportionate to the service rendered.

START NOW.

Do your Christmas shopping early.
Start in now from store to store
For your gifts, from sealskin jackets
Down to arks of Mister Noah.
Buy those socks for Uncle Hiram
While you have the time to choose.
So you will not send him red ones
When his fancy runs to blues.

Do your Christmas shopping early.
Get to work now on your list;
Wait not till the rush line's forming
When your best chance will be missed.

There are things for Aunt Maria,
Ma and Pa and Cousin May,
Sister Kate and Brother Harry,
So get busy right away.

Do your Christmas shopping early.
Give the salesfolk time to think.
For they can't wait on ten people
All at once and in a wink.
It will save you lots of worry,
It will save your temper, too;
Stead of work, make it a pleasure
Well, it's all up now to you.

BLOOMINGBURG WINS.

The Bloomingburg Basketball team defeated the fast Olympian five of Columbus Saturday night upon the home floor by the score of 41 to 14. The game was extremely fast and each team worked hard to stay off their opponents. It was featured by the accurate goal shooting of the Bloomingburg five. At no stage of the game did the visitors have a chance to win, as the work of the Bloomingburg guards, Allen and Allemang, was great. Time after time these guards would take the ball down the floor and make it easy for the forwards to cage the ball, and frequently slip one in themselves. P. Allen, R. Foster and Hicks, the home forwards, were always in for their share of the playing.

Jefferson, at center, was easily the star of the game, as his field goal shooting was sensational, scoring nine field goals. Allemang was again great on his foul goal throwing, making ten out of twelve trials. The Olympians all played hard, but could not overcome the great playing of the home team. The lineup:

Olympians—R. Chambers, r. f.; Wanner, l. f.; Beach, c.; Bowers, r. g.; Fisher, l. g.

Bloomington—P. Allen and R. Foster, r. f.; Hix, l. f.; Jefferson, c.; Allemang, r. g.; H. Allen, l. g.

Field goals—Jefferson, 9; Allemang, 3; Fisher, 3; R. Chambers, Wanner, Bowers, P. Allen, R. Foster, H. Allen. Foul goals—Allemang, 10; Bowers, 2; Jefferson. Referee—Earl Speaks. Timekeepers—Sheridan, of Columbus and Woodland of Bloomingburg. Time of halves—20 minutes.

Man's Nerves

Many Unable to Sleep Owing to Noises

By J. CAREY LEWIS, London

WHEN a tradesman was arraigned recently at a London (England) court on a charge of having attempted to commit suicide, it was pleaded in his behalf that he had suffered from insomnia brought on by the noise made at night by the motor omnibuses and trams which passed the premises at which he resided, and he stated himself that he had been unable to sleep owing to the traffic. This was an extreme case, perhaps, and possibly this particular victim of street noises was a man of abnormally nervous temperament.

But no man's nerves are entirely proof against the sapling influence of disturbed and interrupted sleep, and, unhappily, cause and effect in this case are apt to react and intensify each other. The nervous fear of not being able to sleep is often enough the primary cause of sleeplessness, and thus an irregular series of intermittent noises tends to induce, especially in a sleeper awakened by them, a state of nervous apprehension which may lead in the end to severe and pronounced insomnia.

This is a serious matter, not merely for bad sleepers themselves, but for all who have to depend on their services. No man can do his work efficiently by day if he cannot sleep at night, and when public servants like Sir Henry Morris and other of our correspondents tell us how great and growing the evil is, it is high time for the community at large to bestir itself and insist on a remedy being found and applied, says the London Times.

Of course the traffic of a great city can never be entirely stilled. There must always be occasional passings even in the quietest streets. These we must put up with as best we may, as we must also with the continuous roar of the great thoroughfares up to a late hour of the night. But these are not the enemies of sleep of which Sir Henry Morris specially complains. It is the multiplication of the motor car and the heedless sounding of its raucous horn in the small hours that justly provoke his indignation and remonstrance.

NEWS FROM BUCKEYE CITIES

Negro Killed by Detective.
Chillicothe, O., Dec. 6.—An unknown negro was shot and killed by Detective Powell. The officer attempted to eject the man, who had a partner, another negro, from the waiting room at the Baltimore & Ohio depot. They showed fight and knocked Powell down several times and ran. He fired twice, but did not know that either shot had taken effect. Later the body of the negro was found lying in an alley near the depot.

Orders Poles Removed.
Columbus, O., Dec. 6.—Neither telephone nor electric light companies have authority to erect poles on property without obtaining permission from the owner. The supreme court so holds in a decision in the case of the Logan Light and Power company against Margaret E. Wasson, from Hocking county, affirming the finding of the circuit court.

Prominent Attorney Is Dead.
New Philadelphia, O., Dec. 6.—J. A. Richards, for many years one of the most prominent members of the Tuscarawas county bar, and who represented the Seventeenth Ohio district in congress from March, 1892, to March, 1894, died at his home in this city, following an illness of several months.

SHOULD WOMEN VOTE.

No one who keeps posted on the great work being done by women in professional and business life, and, most important of all, in the American home, can for a moment doubt that they would vote wisely.

If they would only guard their own health as carefully as they do their children's they could accomplish even more.

One woman who knows how necessary it is to stay well is Mrs. Herman of North Birmingham (Ala.). Her daughter, Miss Nona, says in a letter: "We have used Vinol in our family for four years. Whenever my mother gets a bad cold or feels weak and run-down she always uses Vinol and it makes her well again. She says Vinol always gives her strength and builds her up."

This delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil is so certain to cure up chronic coughs, and build up weak, run-down, sickly people of all ages, that we sell it under a positive promise to give back your money if Vinol does not satisfy you. Try Vinol. Blackmer & Tanquary.

MRS. O. H. P. BELMONT SAYS:
"Mrs. Mason's treatment of the head is most scientific. It keeps the hair in perfect health and increases its growth." This is largely due to Mrs. Mason's Old English Shampoo Cream, 25c at Blackmer & Tanquary and other druggists.

CAUSE FOR ALARM.
Loss of Appetite or Distress After Eating a Symptom That Should not Be Disregarded.

Appetite is just a natural desire for food. Loss of appetite or stomach distress after eating indicate indigestion or dyspepsia. Over-eating is a habit very dangerous to a person's good general health.

It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, heaviest, and healthiest persons are moderate eaters.

There is nothing that will cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people daily contract serious maladies simply through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge all in Rochester who suffer from any stomach derangement, indigestion, or dyspepsia, whether acute or chronic, to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the distinct understanding that we will refund their money without question or formality, if after reasonable use of this medicine, they are not perfectly satisfied with the results. We recommend them to our customers every day, and have yet to hear of any one who has not been benefited by them. We honestly believe them to be without equal. They give very prompt relief, aiding to neutralize the gastric juices, strengthen the digestive organs, to regulate the bowels, and thus to promote perfect nutrition, and eradicate all unhealthy symptoms.

We urge you to try a 25c. box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, which gives 15 days' treatment. At the end of that time, your money will be returned to you if you are not satisfied. Of course, in chronic cases length of treatment varies. For such cases, we have two larger sizes, which sell for 50c. and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, Blackmer & Tanquary.

Mark McKinney
Last week's American Sportsman, one of the leading turf journals, gave special note of a Fayette county owned horse as follows:
One of the surprisingly good green performers which showed up in Central Ohio during the past season was the handsome free legged pacer Mark McKinney 2:19 1-4, by Wallace McKinney 2:26 1-4 and out of Bess burns by Bobby Burns 2:19 1-4.
In 1910 he was worked at the trot and early showed up nicely and displayed lots of lick, negotiating a mile in 2:27 3-4, with a last quarter in 34 seconds. Such ability was naturally encouraging to his owner and it was decided to take things easier with him and in 1911, enter him in the early closing events at the more important two lap meetings.
Early this year he was sent to C. W. Marks at Washington C. H., O., the gentleman who brought out Glenwood M 2:07 1-4, Dr. Chase 2:10 1-4 and other fast ones.
Shortly after being put in training, Mark McKinney 2:19 1-4 showed a tendency to pace, and was afforded a chance to display his ability at the lateral gait and in about thirty days time, was able to tramp eighth close to a two minute gait.
Later in the season he was started four times, winning his last two races, the final one being the 2:24 pace at Washington C. H. and which he annexed in one, two, three order, acquiring his record in the final round. Mr. Marks was much impressed with the manner in which Mark McKinney performed and after the last affair, pronounced him, as a prospective performer of exceptional ability. W. A. Howland of Bloomingburg, O., breeder and owner of this pacer intends to race him quite extensively the coming year and will name him in the early closing events to which he is eligible. Quite a number of horsemen throughout that section expect a great showing from Mark McKinney 2:19 1-4, and a record of 2:10 will occasion no surprise.

NEWS FROM BUCKEYE CITIES

Negro Killed by Detective.
Chillicothe, O., Dec. 6.—An unknown negro was shot and killed by Detective Powell. The officer attempted to eject the man, who had a partner, another negro, from the waiting room at the Baltimore & Ohio depot. They showed fight and knocked Powell down several times and ran. He fired twice, but did not know that either shot had taken effect. Later the body of the negro was found lying in an alley near the depot.

Orders Poles Removed.
Columbus, O., Dec. 6.—Neither telephone nor electric light companies have authority to erect poles on property without obtaining permission from the owner. The supreme court so holds in a decision in the case of the Logan Light and Power company against Margaret E. Watson, from Hocking county, affirming the finding of the circuit court.

Prominent Attorney Is Dead.
New Philadelphia, O., Dec. 6.—J. A. Richards, for many years one of the most prominent members of the Tuscarawas county bar, and who represented the Seventeenth Ohio district in congress from March, 1892, to March, 1894, died at his home in this city, following an illness of several months.

Killed While Riding Speeder.
Killed by Pennsylvania Train.
Plain City, O., Dec. 6.—While riding on a track speeder Irma E. Bechtel, 21, of Plain City, was instantly killed when Pennsylvania freight No. 78 struck the trail machine and threw its occupant high in the air. The accident occurred near Hayden.

Killed by Cut of Cars.
Wooner, O., Dec. 6.—Mark Wheaton, 60, a merchant of Shreve, was struck by a shifting engine while crossing the Pennsylvania tracks. Both legs were crushed off above the knees and Mr. Wheaton died a few hours later.

Rats Gnaw Man's Body.
Toledo, O., Dec. 6.—Gnawed away by rats, the body of C. Weeock, a carpenter, was found lying on the floor of a barn, where it evidently had been lived alone in a room in the barn.

Mother of Legislator Dies.
Upper Sandusky, O., Dec. 6.—Mrs. Mary Goodbread, 59, mother of Representative Harry L. Goodbread, died at Nevada, O.

Colored Man Kills Sweetheart

Enraged because his sweetheart, Esther Lucas, 21, colored, had been paying too much attention to other admirers, Elmer Johnson, 19, colored, of Xenia, stabbed the girl to death Sunday night, and is now in prison charged with murder.

After stabbing the woman, Johnson fled, but was arrested within a short time and placed in jail. He shows little concern over his fiendish deed.

Gearless Gas Engine Co. Knocks for Admission

The Gearless Gas Engine Company of Springfield, Ohio, knocks at the door of Washington for admission, and if the plant is not purchased within the next few weeks by a party who has an option on the concern, it will probably be brought to this city by Mr. George Swope, until recently at the head of the Swope Garage and Machine Company in this city.

If the plant is moved to this city, a new building will probably be constructed for the factory, and it is believed that the Gearless Gas Engine has a future before it, and that the concern would add greatly to the manufacturing enterprises of Washington.

Mr. Swope purchased the factory in Springfield some six months ago. At that time it is said to have been forced to sale by mismanagement. Mr. Swope has virtually decided to bring the plant here if it is not sold within the next few weeks. It is believed that no difficulty will be experienced in fully equipping the plant for building two and four horse power gas and gasoline engines.

The Gearless engine is just what its name indicates, being an engine of utmost simplicity. It has been pronounced the best engine constructed in Ohio and one of the best manufactured.

These engines can be manufactured and sold at a great saving to the purchaser. The plan is to eliminate middlemen's profits and sell direct to consumer. 25 per cent. to 100 per cent. may be saved in the purchase of such an engine, and a good profit still remains for the manufacturers.

Mr. Swope will know within a short time whether the option will result in a sale of the plant.

Second Day of Big Sale Success Now Assured

Tuesday's sale at the Sale Pavilion was rather slow owing to the fact that bidders were slow in their responses.

As usual the first day's offering was of rather indifferent quality and considering the time of year and high price of feed, possibly sold for more than should be expected.

Thirty-one head brought a total of $4,295, an average of $138.55. The highest price being $455 bid for Austin W 2:11 1-4, pacing.

Wednesday's sale started under more favorable conditions and with better offerings, larger prices prevailed at the noon hour, the pacer, Dajo, with a race record of 2:10 1-2, consigned by Robt. Minshall of Sedalia, O., was sold for $600, Oscar Valley, of Derby, O., being the purchaser. Dajo is a high class pacer and cheap at the money he brought.

Many new faces were to be seen in the crowd, a few of which were: Roddy Patterson, Columbus, O.; Col. C. M. Leonard, Delaware, O.; L. G. Duffy, of American Sportsman, Cleveland, O.; Omor VanKirk, Dayton, O.; W. P. Melly, manager of Horse Review, Chicago, Ill.; Carry Short, Circleville, O.; Col. Ben Yates, Circleville; T. W. Kinzer, Saratoga Springs, N. Y.; Lew Miller, Circleville, O.; Walter Zin, Powell, O.; Dud Squires, Greenfield, O.; I. J. Critchfield, Buffalo Horse World.

Allen vs. Smith Plaintiff Rests

The introduction of evidence by the plaintiff in the case of Frank M. Allen vs. T. T. Smith, the damage suit in which Allen seeks to recover damages from Smith on account of an accident in the fall of 1909, caused Allen claims, by the reckless driving of an automobile by Smith, was concluded on Tuesday afternoon.

The defense began the introduction of testimony with Raymond Smith, son of the defendant who drove the machine at the time the accident is claimed to have occurred.

Judge Wilson, of counsel for the defendant, conducted the direct examination and John Logan, of counsel for plaintiff, subjected the witness to a rigid cross-examination.

The introduction of evidence on behalf of the defense has occupied the attention of the court yesterday and today.

It is probable that the taking of testimony will occupy the balance of the week.

B. & O. Detective Kills Colored Hobo

Tuesday Detective Powell, of the B. & O. force of detectives, shot and killed an unknown negro at the Chillicothe Union depot, following an assault made upon him by the negro and a companion, when he ordered them out of the station at that place.

The shooting occurred early in the morning before daylight, and Powell shot to frighten the man, he claims. No clew as to the man's identity can be found. Powell was arrested for manslaughter, and his hearing set for Thursday morning. He was released under $2,000 bond.

Man Badly Hurt At Horse Sales

Charles Wagner, a prominent horse buyer of Kenton, Ohio, was badly injured at the sales pavilion Wednesday morning, when a horse which was being tried on the speedway in front of the auctioneer's stand plunged into the crowd and struck Wagner violently, knocking him to the ground with considerable force. The man was not able to arise, and remained in a semi-conscious condition for some time after a physician had been summoned. He was removed to the Cherry hotel.

His injuries are not serious, and his speedy recovery is predicted. It was at first believed that the man had met with fatal injuries.

Annual Inspection Pythian Sisters

The annual inspection of Washington Temple 380, Pythian Sisters, at their lodge home Tuesday night, passed off splendidly, with ringing plaudits for the good work of the order.

The full ritualistic work accompanied by fancy drill work, was put on and in such a satisfactory manner that the inspecting officer, District Deputy Chief of District No. 11, Mrs. Lelia Cherrington, of Logan, graded it the highest of any temple grade so far this year.

After a very eulogistic little address by Mrs. Cherrington, Mayor-elect Harve W. Smith, made a pleasing little talk on the advantage of co-operation between the Knights and Sisters of the Pythian orders.

A tempting lunch was served after the speeches. There was a large attendance of members.

Voluntary Associations to Prevent the Spread of Tuberculosis.

Voluntary societies for preventing the spread of tuberculosis are a comparatively recent development. Before 1905 there were only 18 associations in existence and now there are over 500 such groups of citizens banded together to fight the Great White Plague.

There are 13 organizations in the state of Ohio at the present time. Canton, Celina, Chillicothe, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Eaton, Lima, Lorain, Steubenville, Toledo and Youngstown having organizations which are pushing the work forward.

The purpose of these societies is not only the education of their communities with regard to the causes, methods of prevention and cure of tuberculosis, but also the creation of a body of opinion which will demand the acceptance of responsibility by public officials and which will support subsequent official action directed toward the suppression of the disease.

THE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE.

Why a Crusade Against a Single Disease?

Perhaps one may ask why such a crusade against a single disease? Other diseases are very prevalent, such as heart or kidney diseases, rheumatism, and more frequent than all, pneumonia.

There are several reasons for this. In the first place, there is no other disease which so habitually cuts down its victims in the best years of their lives. Many diseases only occur late in life and are called degenerative diseases, caused by worn-out organs. Pneumonia is most prevalent and fatal at the two extremes of life—before one's work is begun and when it is done.

In the second place, tuberculosis is an infectious or communicable disease, the cause of which we know, as well as its prevention. We know how to avoid it to prevent it, to cure it. Finally, it has a steady, continuous prevalence without intermission. Many contagious diseases come in epidemics and then cease; tuberculosis never ceases.

THE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE.

If You Don't Have Tuberculosis.

Guard your general health, in order that your body may resist attacks of the tuberculosis germ.

See that your living rooms are clean and well-ventilated at all times. Sleep with your window open the year 'round.

See that you have plenty of fresh air in your work shop.

Avoid excesses of all kinds. Vice, which weakens the strong, kills the weak.

Do not neglect a cold or a cough, but go to a private physician at once. You may have consumption and not know it.

Do not live or work with a careless consumptive.

THE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE.

The Red Cross Christmas Seal.

By means of the Red Cross Christmas Seal, not only is a very considerable amount of money raised for the tuberculosis cause but it proved to be one of the greatest mediums of education.

"Every Seal means a bullet in the fight against tuberculosis."

"I'm the Red Cross Christmas Seal."

This that I propose is To summon wealth to fight for health

And beat tuberculosis.

Beat the greatest plague of all, Oust a pall of sadness,

Treat despair with food and air And lift it into gladness."

Class Initiated Officers Elected

The first session of Temple lodge I. O. O. F., was held in the new lodge parlors Tuesday night, and it was a rousing meeting to say the least. A great number of the members were present, and the initiatory degree was conferred upon a class of 28 candidates. Quite a few candidates were absent.

The candidates, who will be members of a class of nearly fifty to take the 1st degree under Imperial Degree Staff on Thursday night, consisted of the following men: Walter Clark, Alexander Campbell, Sam Maddox, Willard E. Martin, Glen Brock, Arthur Leland, Robert A. Edge, Jas. J. Bryan, Frank Underwood, Albert Bachert, Jas. T. Smith, Jos. M. Hamm, E. C. Baughn, Sidney M. Katz, Fuller Hess, R. C. Kearney, H. C. Ireland, Chas. Johnson, J. S. Wilt, J. R. Gault, T. R. Allen, C. D. Phillips, Glen Thornton, Eben Adams, Stanley Chaffin, Jesse Maddux, H. C. Pearce, Jr., W. C. Blue.

Officers elected for the coming term are: Noble Grand, Harry Springer; vice grand, F. M. Kier; recording secretary, Clyde Larrimer; financial secretary, C. V. Lanum; treasurer, J. A. Edge; trustee, S. A. Plyley and representative to Grand Lodge, R. J. McLean.

The dedication of the new hall will take place Thursday afternoon, with a big meeting in the evening at the old lodge room. Supper in the dining room on second floor of the new building from 5 to 8 p. m.

These engines can be manufactured and sold at a great saving to the purchaser. The plan is to eliminate middlemen's profits and sell direct to consumer. 25 per cent. to 100 per cent. may be saved in the purchase of such an engine, and a good profit still remains for the manufacturers.

Mr. Swope will know within a short time whether the option will result in a sale of the plant.

Second Day of Big Sale Success Now Assured

Tuesday's sale at the Sale Pavilion was rather slow owing to the fact that bidders were slow in their responses.

As usual the first day's offering was of rather indifferent quality and considering the time of year and high price of feed, possibly sold for more than should be expected.

Thirty-one head brought a total of $4,295, an average of $138.55. The highest price being $455 bid for Austin W 2:11 1-4, pacing.

Wednesday's sale started under more favorable conditions and with better offerings, larger prices prevailed at the noon hour, the pacer, Dajo, with a race record of 2:10 1-2,

B. & O. Detective Kills Colored Hobo

Tuesday Detective Powell, of the B. & O. force of detectives, shot and killed an unknown negro at the Chillicothe Union depot, following an assault made upon him by the negro and a companion, when he ordered them out of the station at that place.

The shooting occurred early in the morning, before daylight, and Powell shot to frighten the man, he claims. No clue as to the man's identity can be found. Powell was arrested for manslaughter, and his hearing set for Thursday morning. He was released under $2,000 bond.

Man Badly Hurt At Horse Sales

Charles Wagner, a prominent horse buyer of Kenton, Ohio, was badly injured at the sales pavilion Wednesday morning, when a horse which was being tried on the speedway in front of the auctioneer's stand plunged into the crowd and struck Wagner violently, knocking him to the ground with considerable force. The man was not able to arise, and remained in a semi-conscious condition for some time after a physician had been summoned. He was removed to the Cherry hotel.

His injuries are not serious, and his speedy recovery is predicted. It was at first believed that the man had met with fatal injuries.

Annual Inspection Pythian Sisters

The annual inspection of Washington Temple 380, Pythian Sisters, at their lodge home Tuesday night, passed off splendidly, with ringing plaudits for the good work of the order.

The full ritualistic work accompanied by fancy drill work, was put on and in such a satisfactory manner that the inspecting officer, District Deputy Chief of District No. 11, Mrs. Lella Cherrington, of Logan, graded it the highest of any temple grade so far this year.

After a very eulogistic little address by Mrs. Cherrington, Mayor-elect Harvey W. Smith, made a pleasing little talk on the advantage of co-operation between the Knights and Sisters of the Pythian orders.

A tempting lunch was served after the speeches. There was a large attendance of members.

Allen vs. Smith Plaintiff Rests

The introduction of evidence by the plaintiff in the case of Frank M. Allen vs. T. T. Smith, the damage suit in which Allen seeks to recover damages from Smith on account of an accident in the fall of 1909, caused Allen claims, by the reckless driving of an automobile by Smith, was concluded on Tuesday afternoon.

The defense began the introduction of testimony with Raymond Smith, son of the defendant who drove the machine at the time the accident is claimed to have occurred.

Judge Wilson, of counsel for the defendant, conducted the direct examination and John Logan, of counsel for plaintiff, subjected the witness to a rigid cross-examination.

The introduction of evidence on behalf of the defense has occupied the attention of the court yesterday and today.

It is probable that the taking of testimony will occupy the balance of the week.

Voluntary Associations to Prevent the Spread of Tuberculosis.

Voluntary societies for preventing the spread of tuberculosis are a comparatively recent development. Before 1905 there were only 18 associations in existence and now there are over 500 such groups of citizens banded together to fight the Great White Plague.

There are 13 organizations in the state of Ohio at the present time. Canton, Celina, Chillicothe, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Eaton, Lima, Lorain, Steubenville, Toledo and Youngstown having organizations which are pushing the work forward.

The purpose of these societies is not only the education of their communities with regard to the causes, methods of prevention and cure of tuberculosis, but also the creation of a body of opinion which will demand the acceptance of responsibility by public officials and which will support subsequent official action directed toward the suppression of the disease.

THE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE.

Why a Crusade Against a Single Disease?

Perhaps one may ask why such a crusade against a single disease? Other diseases are very prevalent, such as heart or kidney diseases, rheumatism, and more frequent than all, pneumonia.

There are several reasons for this. In the first place, there is no other disease which so habitually cuts down its victims in the best years of their lives. Many diseases only occur late in life and are called degenerative diseases, caused by worn-out organs. Pneumonia is most prevalent and fatal at the two extremes of life—before one's work is begun and when it is done.

In the second place, tuberculosis is an infectious or communicable disease, the cause of which we know, as well as its prevention. We know how to avoid it, to prevent it, to cure it.

Finally, it has a steady, continuous, prevalence without intermission. Many contagious diseases come in epidemics and then cease; tuberculosis never ceases.

THE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE.

If You Don't Have Tuberculosis, Guard your general health, in order that your body may resist attacks of the tuberculosis germ.

See that your living rooms are clean and well-ventilated at all times. Sleep with your window open the year 'round.

See that you have plenty of fresh air in your work shop.

Avoid excesses of all kinds. Vice, which weakens the strong, kills the weak.

Do not neglect a cold or a cough, but go to a private physician at once. You may have consumption and not know it.

Do not live or work with a careless consumptive.

THE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE.

The Red Cross Christmas Seal. By means of the Red Cross Christmas Seal, not only is a very considerable amount of money raised for the tuberculosis cause but it proved to be one of the greatest mediums of education.

"Every Seal means a bullet in the fight against tuberculosis."

"I'm the Red Cross Christmas Seal."

This that I propose is To summon wealth to fight for health

And beat tuberculosis.

Beat the greatest plague of all, Oust a pall of sadness, Treat despair with food and air And lift it into gladness."

Class Initiated Officers Elected

The first session of Temple lodge, I. O. O. F., was held in the new lodge parlors Tuesday night, and it was a rousing meeting to say the least. A great number of the members were present, and the initiatory degree was conferred upon a class of 28 candidates. Quite a few candidates were absent.

The candidates, who will be members of a class of nearly fifty to take the 1st degree under Imperial Degree Staff on Thursday night, consisted of the following men: Walter Clark, Alexander Campbell, Sam Maddox, Willard E. Martin, Glenn Brock, Arthur Leland, Robert A. Edge, Jas. J. Bryan, Frank Underwood, Albert Bachert, Jas. T. Smith, Jos. M. Hamm, E. C. Baughn, Sidney M. Katz, Fuller Hess, R. C. Kearney, H. C. Ireland, Chas. Johnson, J. S. Wilt, J. R. Gault, T. R. Allen, C. D. Phillips, Glen Thornton, Eben Adams, Stanley Chaffin, Jesse Maddux, H. C. Pearce, Jr., W. C. Blue.

Officers elected for the coming term are: Noble Grand, Harry Springer; vice grand, F. M. Kier, recording secretary, Clyde Larimer, financial secretary, C. V. Lanum, treasurer, J. A. Edge; trustee, S. A. Plyley and representative to Grand Lodge, R. J. McLean.

The dedication of the new hall will take place Thursday afternoon, with a big meeting in the evening at the old lodge room. Supper in the new dining room on second floor of the new building from 5 to 8 p. m.

LITTLE DONE WITH NERVES ON EDGE

Debilitated Condition Saps Life and Energy from People Who Need All Their Strength.

Half sick, tired all the time, no energy or ambition, with your nerves on edge and your stomach out of order, how can you expect to get any happiness out of life when in such a miserable state?

You can't, and you won't, until you find relief from the debilitated condition that is sapping your vitality and robbing you of your strength.

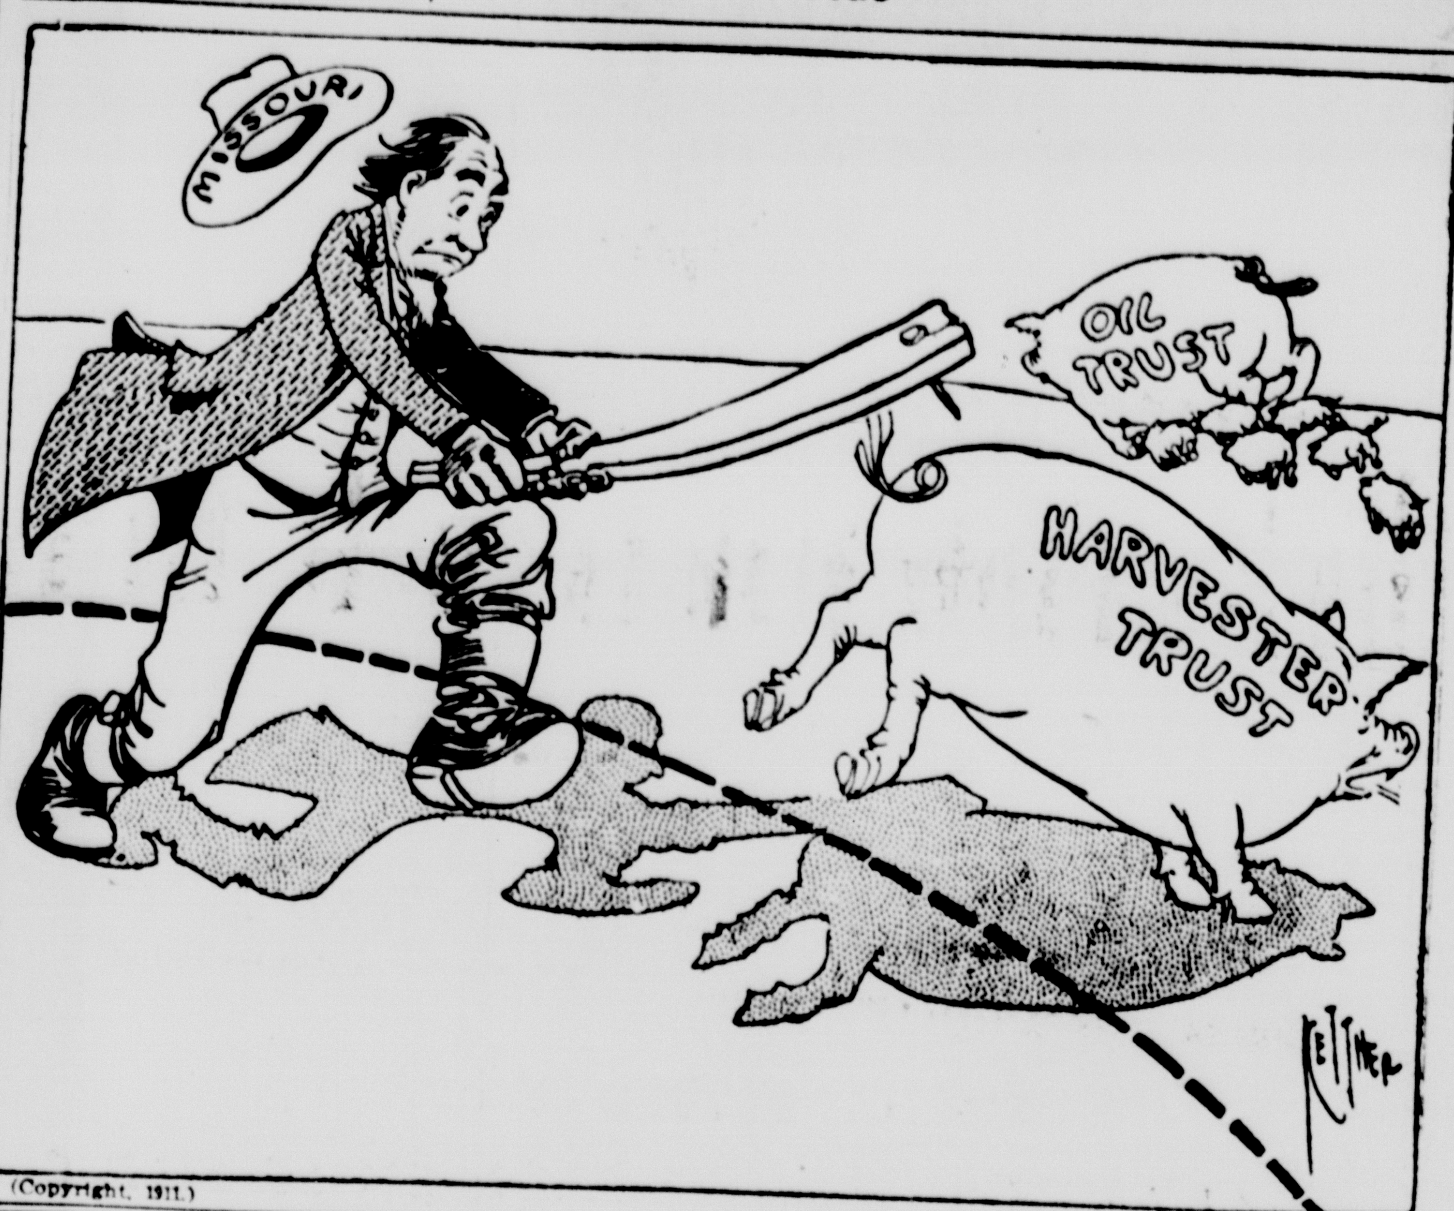

Physicians know that half the population in the larger cities of this country are today afflicted with nervous debility caused by the wear and tear of modern life.

A preparation has been used by European physicians to combat this nervous condition with remarkable success. A similar preparation "Tona Vita" was introduced in this country a few months ago and is making a marvelous record here. "Tona Vita" is bringing back health and happiness to thousands of listless, debilitated men and women. You owe it to your family, you owe it to yourself to let this wonderful new tonic build you up. There is no other medicine like it on earth, one dose will convince any one of this. If "Tona Vita" doesn't do more for you than all the other medicines you have ever taken, if it doesn't make you happier and healthier and better in every way, what you pay for it will be returned to you by Brown's Drug Store.

Lee's Rhubarb Laxative, the assistant remedy, is another great medicine. It is a splendid family laxative, containing the medicinal properties of rhubarb—nature's own laxative. It will not injure the most delicate constitution and should be used for children above everything else. It is pleasant to the taste.

Brown's Drug Store has the Washington C. H. O. agency for "Tona Vita" and Lee's Rhubarb Laxative.

ADDRESSES PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Prof. Shannon discussed "Present Day Problems" to the edification of a good audience at Memorial Hall Monday night.

The chief problem discussed was the "Divorce Question." The speaker blamed immaturity for a great many divorces. Statistics prove that where children of 13 to 16 marry the result is usually the divorce court.

Prof. Shannon advocated certain divorce laws, one that the contracting parties must make application and announce the intention three months before the ceremony takes place.

Prof. Shannon addressed the students of the Public schools in the different buildings all day Monday, trying to impress them with the need of right living in order to be healthy, capable men and women.

Mormonism Exposed by Cannon

A magnificent audience greeted Hon. Frank J. Cannon at Grace church Tuesday night and listened with absorbed attention for almost two hours to the first United States Senator from the State of Utah.

A forceful, convincing speaker, Senator Cannon exposed the modern Mormon kingdom, with the authority of years of experience with the Mormon church and polygamy and their relations with the United States government.

Senator Cannon's mother was one of the band who in 1848 left Illinois and struck out through the desert to found the colony which is now a powerful octopus in Salt Lake City. He was born in the Mormon church and one of its elders.

The speaker took up the efforts of the government to prevent the growth and spread of the church in matters political and financial. He called attention to the series of legislative enactments designed to break the power of the Mormon church.

After the enactment of Congress of laws disfranchising every member of the Mormon church, that church acknowledged its defeat and surrendered.

Following this the government, relying upon the good faith of the church's officers, enacted laws restoring to the church all properties and to its members the right of franchise and legitimizing all children born of polygamous marriages.

Senator Cannon was one of the messengers from the church to make the agreement, in which its honor was pledged.

He showed how systematically the Mormon church had broken these pledges.

Of much interest was Senator Cannon's discussion of the Reed Smoot case: Smoot an apostle of the church and as such having taken the oath of the Mormons to make all governments subservient to the church.

Many people have supposed Smoot, charged with polygamy. Proof of this failed. That was not the charge. He was guilty of treason.

In speaking of the rapidly with which the Mormon church has gained ground in the religious, political and business circles of the world, Senator Cannon showed how strong was the financial influence of the church, its millions, sufficient to hush up hostile reports even in the government.

The Mormon church is spreading astonishingly through Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada and south through New Mexico, Arizona and Mexico. Its enormous wealth is its greatest menace.

MISS MINERVA and WILLIAM GREEN HILL

By FRANCES BOYD CALHOUN

(Copyright, by Kelly & Britton Co.)

CHAPTER V.

Turning on the Hose.

"Look! Ain't that a snake?" shrieked Billy, pointing to what looked to him like a big snake coiled in the yard.

"Snake, nothing!" sneered his companion, "that's a hose. You all time got to call a hose a snake. Come on, let's sprinkle," and Jimmy sprang out of the swing, jerked up the hose and dragged it to the hydrant. "My mamma don't never 'low me to sprinkle with her hose, but Miss Minerva she's so good I don't reckon she'll care," he cried mendaciously.

Billy followed, watched his companion screw the hose to the faucet and turn the water on. There was a hissing, gurgling sound and a stream of water shot out, much to the rapture of the astonished Billy.

"Won't Aunt Minerva care?" he asked, anxiously. "Is she a real 'ligious 'oman?"

"She is the Christianest woman they is," announced the other child. "Come on, we'll sprinkle the street—and I don't want nobody to get in our way neither."

"I wish Wilkes Booth Lincoln could see us," said Miss Minerva's nephew. A big, fat negro, with a bundle of clothes tied in a red table cloth on her head, came waddling down the sidewalk.

Billy looked at Jimmy and giggled; Jimmy looked at Billy and giggled; then, the latter took careful aim and a stream of water hit the old woman squarely in the face.

"Who dat? What's yo' doin'?" she yelled, as she backed off. "Is a gwine to tell yo' pappy, Jimray Garner," as she recognized one of the culprits. "Pint dat ar hose 'way from me, 'fo' I make yo' ma spank yuh slabsided. I got to git home an' wash. Drap it, I tell yuh!"

Two little girls rolling two doll buggies in which reposed two enormous ragdolls were seen approaching.

"That's Lina Hamilton and Frances Black," said Jimmy, "they're my chums."

Billy took a good look at them. "They's goin' to be my chums, too," he said, calmly.

"Your chums, nothing!" angrily cried Jimmy, swelling up pompously. "You all time trying to claim my chums. I can't have nothing a tall 'bout you got to stick your mouth in. You 'bout the scilfishest boy they is. You want everything I got, all time!"

The little girls were now quite near and Jimmy halted them gleefully, forgetful of his anger.

"Come on, Lina, you and Frances," he shrieked, "and we can have the mostest fun. Billy here's done come to live with Miss Minerva and she's done gone uptown and don't care if we sprinkle, 'cause she's got so much 'ligion."

"But you know none of us are allowed to use a hose," objected Lina.

"But it's so much fun," said Jimmy; "and Miss Minerva she's so Christian she ain't going to raise much of a rough house, and if she do we can run when we see her coming."

"I can't run," said Billy; "I ain't got nowhere to run to!"

"If that ain't just like you, Billy," interrupted Jimmy, "all time talking 'bout you ain't got nowhere to run to!"

You don't want nobody to have no run. You 'bout the plicyestest boy they is."

Little Ikey Rosenstein, better known as "Goose-Grease," dressed in a cast-off suit of his big brother's, with his father's hat set rakishly back on his head and over his ears, was coming proudly down the street some distance off.

"Yonder comes Goose-Grease Rosenstein," said Jimmy gleefully. "When he gets right close let's make him hop."

"All right," agreed Billy, his good humor restored, "let's baptize him good."

"Oh, we can't baptize him," exclaimed the other little boy, "'cause he's a Jew and the Bible says not to baptize Jews. You got to mesmerize 'em. How come me to know so much?" he continued condescendingly.

"Miss Cecilia taught me in the Sunday school. Sometimes I know so much I feel like I'm going to bust. She taught me 'bout 'Scuffle Little chillens and forbid them not,' and 'bout 'Ananias telled Sapphira he done it with his little hatchet,' and 'bout 'Liljah jumped over the moon in a automobile. I know everything what's in the Bible. Miss Cecilia sure is a cracker-jack; she's 'bout the stylishest Sunday school teacher they is."

"'Twas the cow jumped over the moon," said Frances, "and it isn't in the Bible; it's in 'Mother Goose.'"

"And Elijah went to heaven in a chariot of fire," corrected Lina.

"And I know all 'bout Gabriel," continued Jimmy, unabashed. "When folks called him to blow his trumpet he was under the haystack fast asleep."

Ikey was quite near by this time to command the attention of the four children.

"Let's mesmerize Goose-Grease," yelled Jimmy, as he turned the stream of water full upon him.

Frances, Lina and Billy clapped their hands and laughed for joy.

With a terrified and angry shriek their victim, dripping water at every step, ran howling by his tormentors. When he reached a safe distance he turned around, shook a fist at them and screamed back:

"My pappy is going to have you all arrested and locked up in the calaboose!"

"Calaboose, nothing!" jeered Jimmy. "You all time wanting to put somebody in the calaboose 'cause they mesmerize you. You got to be mesmerized 'cause it's in the Bible."

A short, stout man, dressed in neat black clothes, was coming toward them.

"Oh, that's the major!" screamed Billy delightedly, taking the hose and squirting himself to greet his friend of the train, but Jimmy jerked it out of his hand, before either of them noticed him turning about, as if for something forgotten.

"You ain't got the sense of a one-eyed tadpole, Billy," he said. "That's Miss Minerva's beau. He's been loving her more'n a million years. My mamma says he ain't never going to marry nobody a tall 'bout he can get Miss Minerva, and Miss Minerva she just turns up her nose at anything that wears pants. You better not sprinkle him. He's been to the war and got his big toe shot off. He kilt 'bout a million Injuns and Yankees and he's name Major 'cause he's a Confed'rit vetrun. He went to the war when he ain't but fourteen."

"Did he have on long pants?" asked Billy. "I call him Major Minerva."

"Gladys Maude's got the penny-sneakers," broke in Frances importantly, fussing over her baby, "and I'm going to see Doctor Sanford. Don't you think she looks pale, Jimmy?"

"Pale, nothing!" sneered the little boy. "Girls got to all time play their dolls are sick. Naw; I don't know nothing a tall 'bout your Gladys Maude."

Lina gazed up the street.

"That looks like Miss Minerva to me 'way up yonder," she remarked. "I think we had better get away from here before she sees us."

Two little girls rolling doll buggies fairly flew down the street and one little boy quickly climbed to the top of the dividing fence. From this safe vantage point he shouted to Billy, who was holding the nozzle of the hose out of which poured a stream of water.

"You'd better turn that water off 'cause Miss Minerva's going to be madder'n a green persimmon."

"I do know how to," said Billy forlornly. "You turn it on."

"Drop the hose and run to the hydrant and twist that little thing at the top," screamed Jimmy. "You all time got to perpose something to get little boys in trouble anyway," he added ungenerously.

"You perposed this yo'self," declared an indignant Billy. "You said Aunt Minerva's so 'ligious she wouldn't git mad."

"Christian woman's can get just as mad as any other kind," declared the other boy, sliding from his perch on the fence and running across the lawn to disappear behind his own front steps.

Holding her skirts nearly up to her knees Miss Minerva stepped gingerly along the wet and muddy street till she got to her gate, where her nephew met her, looking a little guilty, but still holding his head up with that characteristic, manly air which was so attractive.

"William," she said sternly, "I see you have been getting into mischief, and I feel it my duty to punish you, so that you may learn to be trustworthy. I said nothing to you about the hose because I did not think you would know how to use it."

Billy remained silent. He did not want to betray his little companions of the morning, so he said nothing in his own defense.

"Come with me into the house," continued his aunt, "you must go to bed at once."

But the child protested vigorously. "Don't make me go to bed in the daytime, Aunt Minerva; me an' Wilkes Booth Lincoln ain't never went to bed in the daytime since we's born, an' I ain't never hear tell of a real 'ligious 'oman a-puttin' a little boy in bed 'fore it's dark; an' I ain't never agoing to meddle with yo' ole hose no mo'."

But Miss Minerva was obdurate, and the little boy spent a miserable hour between the sheets.

CHAPTER VI.

Successful Strategy.

"I have a present for you," said his aunt, handing Billy a long, rectangular package.

"Thank you, ma'am," said her beaming nephew as he sat down on the floor, all eager anticipation, and began to untie the string. His charming, changeable face was bright and happy again, but his expression became one of indignant amazement as he saw the contents of the box.

"What I want with a doll?" he asked angrily. "I ain't no girl."

"I think every little boy should have a doll and learn to make clothes for it," said Miss Minerva. "I don't want you to be a great, rough boy; I want you to be a sweet, gentle little boy; I am going to teach you how to sew and cook and sweep, so you may grow up a comfort to me."

This was a gloomy forecast for the little boy accustomed, as he had been, to the freedom of a big plantation, and he scowled darkly.

"Me an' Wilkes Booth Lincoln ain't never hafter play with no dolls sence we's born," he replied sullenly, "we goes in swimmin' an' plays baseball. I can knock a home-run an' pitch a curve an' ketch a fly. Why don't you gimme a baseball bat? I already got a ball what Admiral Farragut gimme. An' I ain't a-goin' to be no sissy neither. Lina an' Frances plays dolls, me an' Jimmy?" he stopped in sudden confusion.

"Lina and Frances and James!" exclaimed his aunt. "What do you know about them, William?"

The child's face flushed. "I seen 'em this mornin'," he acknowledged.

Miss Minerva put a hand on either shoulder and looked straight into his eyes.

Life Sentence To McNamara

came over from Washington to confer with him relative to the contempt case, in which both are defendants. "Yes, I feel that the sentence is appropriate."

Mr. Gompers showed an evident desire to talk to the newspaper men. He disclosed what he had in mind in a moment.

"Without waiting to be questioned on this subject," he said, "I wish to make this statement: United States District Attorney Miller of Indianapolis is quoted in the newspapers as saying that leaders such as Gompers should be retired. As to the wisdom of my leadership, it is not for District Attorney Miller to say. If he has charges to bring against anyone, let him present them to a grand jury. It is not for him to judge of my leadership. It is an impertinence on his part, a gratuitous insult. I was unanimously re-elected to the presidency of the American Federation of Labor, and as I have said before, that is my credential. It is for those who elected me to say whether I shall remain or not."

In speaking of the fund raised for the defense of the McNamaras, Mr. Morrison said: "The amount raised was something over $200,000. Of that sum a retainer of $50,000 was paid to Clarence S. Darrow, who has looked after the legal interests of the McNamaras. In addition to his retainer he was to receive so much per day. What his whole fee will be I do not know—at least $100,000."

victim of as foul a conspiracy as was ever hatched; that that belief was fostered, matured and grew into conviction largely because of the manner in which McNamara was spirited from Indianapolis and hurried to a city hostile to organized labor; and that the judge of the police court, the mayor of the city and the governor of the state lent their aid to it in violation of law.

The crime to which the McNamaras have pleaded guilty is declared to be heinous and revolting, but it is said that organized labor came to their defense in the light of the circumstances and did only their duty as conditions then existed. The statement closes thus:

"Despite the shrieking of the hostile press; despite the insane rejoicings of the enemy of labor and despite the great addition that has been imposed on labor's burden by those who are recalcitrant to its cause, the full import of this tremendous development in the relations between capital and labor will finally assert itself, and the criminals who can not be reached by law will not go unwhipped of the scorn of public opinion."

CHAPTER V.

Turning on the hose.

"Look! Ain't that a snake?" shrieked Billy, pointing to what looked to him like a big snake coiled in the yard.

"Snake, nothing!" sneered his companion, "that's a hose. You all time got to call a hose a snake. Come on, let's sprinkle," and Jimmy sprang out of the swing, jerked up the hose and dragged it to the hydrant. "My mamma don't never 'low me to sprinkle with her hose, but Miss Minerva she's so good I don't reckon she'll care," he cried mendaciously.

Billy followed, watched his companion screw the hose to the faucet and turn the water on. There was a hissing, gurgling sound and a stream of water shot out, much to the rapture of the astonished Billy.

"Won't Aunt Minerva care?" he asked, anxiously. "Is she a real 'ligious 'oman?"

"She is the Christianest woman they is," announced the other child. "Come on, we'll sprinkle the street—and I don't want nobody to get in our way neither."

"I wish Wilkes Booth Lincoln could see us," said Miss Minerva's nephew. A big, fat negro, with a bundle of clothes tied in a red table cloth on her head, came waddling down the sidewalk.

Billy looked at Jimmy and giggled; Jimmy looked at Billy and giggled; then, the latter took careful aim and a stream of water hit the old woman squarely in the face.

"Who dat? What's yo' doin'?" she yelled, as she backed off. "Is a gwine to tell yo' pappy, Jimray Garner," as she recognized one of the culprits. "P'int dat ar hose 'way f'm me, 'fo' I make yo' ma spank yuh slabsided. I got to git home an' wash. Drap it, I tell yuh!"

Two little girls rolling two doll buggies in which reposed two enormous ragdolls were seen approaching.

"That's Lina Hamilton and Frances Black," said Jimmy, "they're my chums."

Billy took a good look at them. "They's goin' to be my chums, too," he said, calmly.

"Your chums, nothing!" angrily cried Jimmy, swelling up pompously. "You all time trying to claim my chums. I can't have nothing a tall 'bout you got to stick your mouth in. You 'bout the selfishest boy they is. You want everything I got, all time."

The little girls were now quite near and Jimmy halted them gleefully, forgetful of his anger.

"Come on, Lina, you and Frances," he shrieked, "and we can have the mostest fun. Billy here's done come to live with Miss Minerva and she's done gone uptown and don't care if we sprinkle, 'cause she's got so much 'ligion."

"But you know none of us are allowed to use a hose," objected Lina.

"But it's so much fun," said Jimmy; "and Miss Minerva she's so Christian she ain't going to raise much of a ruckus, and if she do we can run when we see her coming."

"I can't run," said Billy; "I ain't got nowhere to run to an'—"

"If that ain't just like you, Billy," interrupted Jimmy, "all time talking 'bout you ain't got nowhere to run to; you don't want nobody to have no run. You 'bout the playfulest boy they is."

You don't want nobody to have no run. You 'bout the playfulest boy they is."

Little Ikey Rosenstein, better known as "Goose-Grease," dressed in a cast-off suit of his big brother's, with his father's hat set rakishly back on his head and over his ears, was coming proudly down the street some distance off.

"Yonder comes Goose-Grease Rosenstein," said Jimmy gleefully. "When he gets right close he's make him hop."

"All right," agreed Billy, his good humor restored, "he's baptize him good."

"Oh, we can't baptize him," exclaimed the other little boy, "'cause he's a Jew and the Bible says not to baptize Jews. You got to mesmerize 'em. How come me to know so much?" he continued condescendingly.

"Miss Cecilia taught me in the Sunday school. Sometimes I know so much I feel like I'm going to bust. She taught me 'bout 'Scuffle Little chillens and forbid them not,' and 'bout 'Ananias telled Sapphira he done it with his little hatchet,' and 'bout 'Liljah jumped over the moon in a automobile.' I know everything what's in the Bible. Miss Cecilia sure is a cracker-jack; she's 'bout the stylishest Sunday school teacher they is."

"'Twas the cow jumped over the moon," said Frances, "and it ain't in the Bible; it's in 'Mother Goose.'"

"And Liljah went to heaven in a chariot of fire," corrected Lina.

"And I know all 'bout Gabriel," continued Jimmy, unabashed. "When folks called him to blow his trumpet he was under the haystack fast asleep."

Ikey was quite near by this time to command the attention of the four children.

"Let's mesmerize Goose-Grease," yelled Jimmy, as he turned the stream of water full upon him.

Frances, Lina and Billy clapped their hands and laughed for joy.

With a terrified and angry shriek their victim, dripping water at every step, ran howling by his tormentors. When he reached a safe distance he turned around, shook a fist at them and screamed back:

"My papa is going to have you all arrested and locked up in the calaboose."

"Calaboose, nothing!" jeered Jimmy. "You all the time wanting to put somebody in the calaboose 'cause they mesmerize you. You got to be mesmerized 'cause it's in the Bible."

A short, stout man, dressed in neat black clothes, was coming toward them.

"Oh, that's the major!" screamed Billy delightedly, taking the hose and squaring himself to greet his friend of the train, but Jimmy jerked it out of his hand, before either of them noticed him turning about, as if for something forgotten.

"You ain't got the sense of a one-eyed tadpole, Billy," he said. "That's Miss Minerva's beau. He's been loving her more'n a million years. My mamma says he ain't never going to marry nobody a tall 'bout he can get Miss Minerva, and Miss Minerva she just turns up her nose at anything that wears pants. You better not sprinkle him. He's been to the war and got his big toe shot off. He kill 'bout a million Injuns and Yankees and he's name Major 'cause he's a Confed'rit vetrun. He went to the war when he ain't but fourteen."

"Did he have on long pants?" asked Billy. "I call him Major Minerva."

"Gladys Maude's got the penny-sneakers," broke in Frances importantly, fussing over her baby, "and I'm going to see Doctor Sanford. Don't you think she looks pale, Jimmy?"

"Pale, nothing!" sneered the little boy. "Girls got to all time play their dolls are sick. Naw; I don't know nothing a tall 'bout your Gladys Maude."

Lina gazed up the street.

"That looks like Miss Minerva to me 'way up yonder," she remarked. "I think we had better get away from here before she sees us."

Two little girls rolling doll buggies fairly flew down the street and one little boy quickly climbed to the top of the dividing fence. From this safe vantage point he shouted to Billy, who was holding the nozzle of the hose out of which poured a stream of water.

"You'd better turn that water off 'cause Miss Minerva's going to be madder'n a green persimmon."

"I do know how to," said Billy scornfully. "You turn it on."

"Drop the hose and run to the hydrant and twist that little thing at the top," screamed Jimmy. "You all time got to be messing around—get Little here in trouble anyway," he added ungenerously.

"You proposed this yo'self," declared an indignant Billy. "You said Aunt Minerva's so 'ligious she wouldn't git mad."

"Christian woman's can get just as mad as any other kind," declared the other boy, sliding from his perch on the fence and running across the lawn to disappear behind his own front steps.

Holding her skirts nearly up to her knees Miss Minerva stepped gingerly along the wet and muddy street till she got to her gate, where her nephew met her, looking a little guilty, but still holding his head up with that characteristic, manly air which was so attractive.

"William," she said sternly, "I see you have been getting into mischief, and I feel it my duty to punish you, so that you may learn to be trustworthy. I said nothing to you about the hose because I did not think you would know how to use it."

Billy remained silent. He did not want to betray his little companions of the morning, so he said nothing in his own defense.

"Come with me into the house," continued his aunt, "you must go to bed at once."

But the child protested vigorously. "Don't make me go to bed in the daytime, Aunt Minerva; me an' Wilkes Booth Lincoln ain't never went to bed in the daytime since we's born, an' I ain't never hear tell of a real 'ligious 'oman a-puttin' a little boy in bed 'fore it's dark; an' I ain't never agoing to meddle with yo' ole hose no mo'."

But Miss Minerva was obdurate, and the little boy spent a miserable hour between the sheets.

CHAPTER VI.

Successful Strategy.

"I have a present for you," said his aunt, handing Billy a long, rectangular package.

"Thank you, ma'am," said her beaming nephew as he sat down on the floor, all eager anticipation, and began to untie the string. His charming, changeable face was bright and happy again, but his expression became one of indignant amaze as he saw the contents of the box.

"What I want with a doll?" he asked angrily. "I ain't no girl."

"I think every little boy should have a doll and learn to make clothes for it," said Miss Minerva. "I don't want you to be a great, rough boy; I want you to be a sweet and gentle like a little girl; I am going to teach you how to sew and cook and sweep, so you may grow up a comfort to me."

This was a gloomy forecast for the little boy accustomed, as he had been, to the freedom of a big plantation, and he scowled darkly.

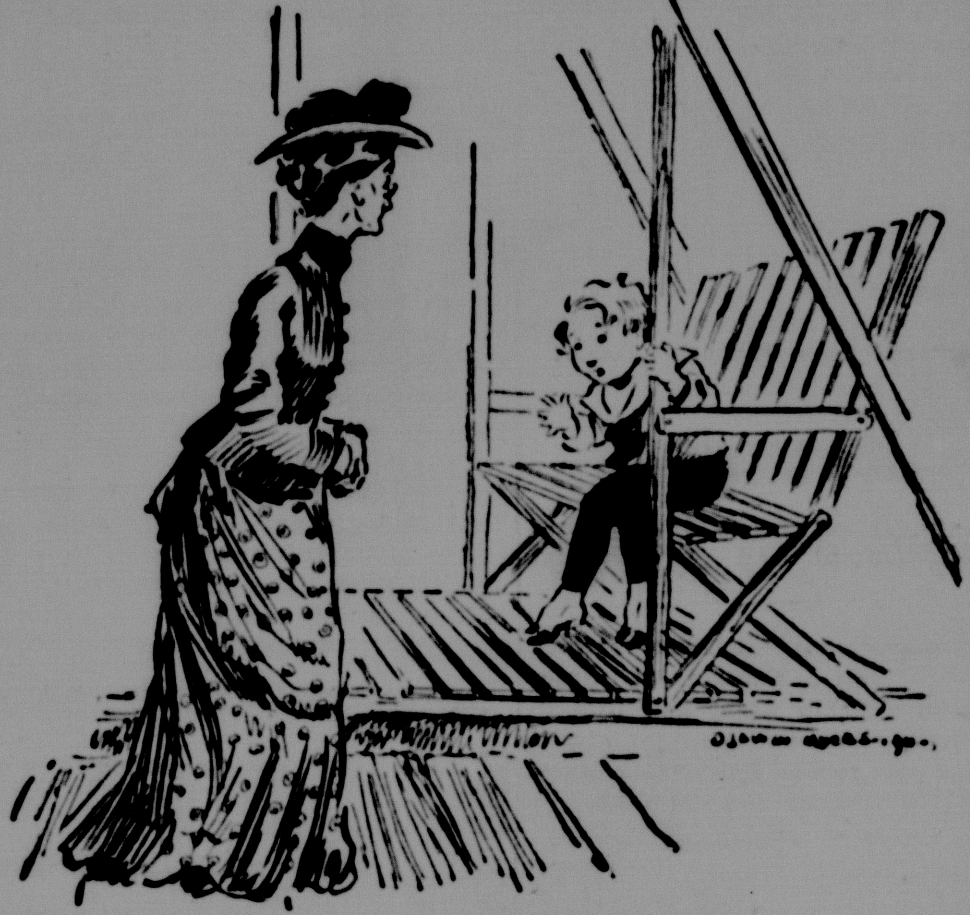

"Me an' Wilkes Booth Lincoln ain't never hafter play with no dolls sence we's born," he replied sullenly, "we goes in swimmin' an' plays baseball. I can knock a home-run an' pitch a curve an' ketch a fly. Why don't you gimme a baseball bat? I already got a ball what Admiral Farragut gimme. An' I ain't a-goin' to be no slay neither. Lina an' Frances plays dolls, me an' Jimmy—" he stopped in sudden confusion.

"Lina and Frances and James!" exclaimed his aunt. "What do you know about them, William?"

The child's face flushed. "I seen 'em this mornin'," he acknowledged.

Miss Minerva put a hand on either shoulder and looked straight into his eyes.

Life Sentence To McNamara

came over from Washington to confer with him relative to the contempt case, in which both are defendants. "Yes, I feel that the sentence is appropriate."

Mr. Gompers showed an evident desire to talk to the newspaper men. He disclosed what he had in mind in a moment.

"Without waiting to be questioned on this subject," he said, "I wish to make this statement: United States District Attorney Miller of Indianapolis is quoted in the newspapers as saying that leaders such as Gompers should be retired. As to the wisdom of my leadership, it is not for District Attorney Miller to say. If he has charges to bring against anyone, let him present them to a grand jury. It is not for him to judge of my leadership. It is an impertinence on his part, a gratuitous insult. I was unanimously re-elected to the presidency of the American Federation of Labor, and as I have said before, that is my credential. It is for those who elected me to say whether I shall remain or not."

In speaking of the fund raised for the defense of the McNamaras, Mr. Morrison said: "The amount raised was something over $200,000. Of that sum a retainer of $50,000 was paid to Clarence S. Darrow, who has looked after the legal interests of the McNamaras. In addition to his retainer he was to receive no much per day. What his whole fee will be I do not know—at least $100,000."

LYNCH CALLS MEETING

Labor Leaders Declare McNamaras Victims of Conspiracy.

Indianapolis, Dec. 6.—The executive officers of the national labor organizations having headquarters here met on call of James M. Lynch, president of the International Typographical union, and issued a long statement in relation to the McNamara dynamiting case.

The statement declares that the members of the conference are assembled "to express condemnation of crime and violence, whether developed in trade, in unions, in commercial enterprises or in the conduct of daily life." It says that they believe John J. McNamara was the victim of an anti-conspiracy as was ever hatched; that that belief was fostered, matured and grew into conviction largely because of the manner in which McNamara was spirited from Indianapolis and hurried to a city hostile to organized labor; and that the judge of the police court, the mayor of the city and the governor of the state lent their aid to it in violation of law.

The crime to which the McNamaras have pleaded guilty is declared to be heinous and revolting, but it is said that organized labor came to their defense in the light of the circumstances and did only their duty as conditions then existed. The statement closes thus:

"Despite the shrieking of the hostile press; despite the insane rejoicings of the enemy of labor and despite the great addition that has been imposed on labor's burden by those who are recreant to its cause, the full import of this tremendous development in the relations between capital and labor will finally assert itself, and the criminals who can not be reached by law will not go unwhipped of the scorn of public opinion."

Mother Believes Sons Guilty.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 6.—"I want to go out and see my boys, even if they are confessed dynamiters," said Mrs. Mary McNamara, when she learned that her son James had been given a life sentence and her son John a 15-year penitentiary term. The aged mother of the dynamiters, who protested several days ago that her sons were innocent in spite of their published confessions, now believes they are guilty. "I want to hear them tell me with their own lips why they did those awful things," she said.

McNamaras Subpoenaed.

Los Angeles, Dec. 5.—Clarence Darrow is authority for the statement that the McNamaras were served with subpoenas summoning them before the federal grand jury, which meets here tomorrow.

HALT CALLED BY THE PROTEST

Canton Mayor Quotes Ellis' Opinion to Harmon.

Columbus, O., Dec. 6.—Governor Harmon will go no further with the charges on which he has been asked to remove from office Mayor Arthur H. Turnbull of Canton until he has passed upon it is right to act.

He recognized the validity of the removal section of the municipal code when he summoned Mayor Arthur H. Turnbull after the Newark riot to answer charges, a summons which the mayor answered by resigning.

John C. Welty and Charles C. Upham of Canton, attorneys for Mayor Turnbull, filed formal motion to dismiss the charges of citizens against him, citing Former Attorney General Ellis' opinion to Governor Herrick, that the law was defective and inoperative, thus giving Governor Harmon an opportunity to change his mind.
